Ella Hushagen is a Senior Trial Attorney in the Los Angeles District Office of the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. In that capacity, Ella litigates federal civil rights cases on behalf of the Commission to protect workers from discrimination, harassment and retaliation. Ella prosecutes large systemic cases, and helps achieve excellent resolutions—including compensation for aggrieved employees and workplace reforms to prevent the recurrence of violations.

Before joining the E.E.O.C., Ella was an Associate at Teukolsky Law, APC, where she cut her teeth in employment law litigating numerous individual and class cases in the fast-paced practice. Ella helped the firm achieve terrific outcomes for clients.

Ella has devoted her years in practice to public service law. Prior to joining Teukolsky Law, Ella was an attorney at Neighborhood Legal Services of Los Angeles. There, Ella's focus was health care access for low-income Los Angeles County residents. With others, she successfully sued Los Angeles County to end its practice of cutting off Medi-Cal benefits for low-income people due to its own paperwork backlog. From 2014-2015, Ella was a law clerk in the Chambers of the Honorable Fernando M. Olguin.
