Rochelle Mulondo is a 2L at UCLA School of Law with a bachelor's degree in public health and is currently a Co-Chair of the Black Law Students Association at the law school. Mulondo is interested in the intersections between law, technology, and business, and spent this summer at Apple working in the Corporate and Compliance team.

Previously, Mulondo implemented innovative initiatives and programs on behalf of Fortune 500 companies and state health systems as a Public Affairs Associate and Health Consultant. She also has a background in public policy and completed an internship in Washington D.C. working for Representative Karen Bass' office.

Mulondo is an incoming summer associate at Sidley Austin (Palo Alto) and is looking forward to working with the attorneys in the technology transactions group next summer.
