Visit by Senator Kirsten Gillibrand Marks Launch of Initiative to Empower Women Graduates

In January, UCLA Law hosted an intimate discussion with Senator Kirsten Gillibrand ‘91. During an event at UCLA Chancellor Gene Block’s residence, she discussed her new book, Off the Sidelines: Raise Your Voice, Change the World, in which she recounts her personal journey in public service and galvanizes women to make a meaningful difference in the world around them. Her visit marked the official launch of a new law school initiative, UCLA Law Women LEAD, which is aimed at empowering and supporting UCLA Law’s women graduates. Based on the pillars of Leadership, Empowerment, Advancement and Distinction, UCLA Law Women LEAD is an intergenerational network of the law school’s distinguished alumnae. The initiative will address the specific challenges facing UCLA Law alumnae throughout their careers, offering programming and networking opportunities to support women from first-year law students to professionals at the most senior levels. At the event, UCLA Law Women LEAD Co-Chairs Nancy Aheil ’79 and Michelle Banks ’88 shared their goals for the initiative, which include helping the law school’s women graduates build their global reputations, expand their influence and advance their career and personal goals. For more information, please visit uclalawwomenlead.com.

Attorney General Kamala Harris Addresses Human Trafficking at UCLA Law Review Symposium

California Attorney General Kamala Harris gave the keynote address at the 2014-2015 UCLA Law Review Symposium, “Examining the Roots of Human Trafficking and Exploitation.” The two-day symposium, which was held in January, focused on the historical causes and legal dynamics of exploitation, as well as the state and federal responses to sex and labor trafficking. More than 45 speakers in the fields of law, medicine, social work, sociology and public health participated in the conference to help raise awareness of the issues associated with trafficking and exploitation, including how to identify and respond to these crimes. Attorney General Harris discussed the state’s efforts to combat trafficking and exploitation, and the need for local, state and federal law enforcement agencies to work together in order to bring perpetrators of these crimes to justice. The event also featured a number of leaders among trafficking and exploitation survivors, including UCLA Law alumna Carissa Phelps ’07, who helped to bring the insights and needs of survivors to the forefront of the discussion. Panels covered a range of topics, including survivor-centered approaches to combating trafficking and exploitation, the harm in criminalizing victims of sexual exploitation, and issues in human rights and anti-trafficking advocacy and policy.

Pritzker Brief Focuses on Tracking Risks of Sea Level Rise

This spring, the Emmett Institute on Climate Change and the Environment is releasing the most recent Pritzker Environmental Law and Policy Brief. The report focuses on Assembly Bill 2516, which requires California to publish information about sea level rise in an online database. With input from a team of coastal adaptation experts, co-authors Megan Herzog (Emmett Institute), Susanne Moser (Susanne Moser Research & Consulting/Stanford) and Sarah Newkirk (The Nature Conservancy) provide recommendations to state agencies regarding the content and functionality of the new database. These recommendations may be useful to other states and entities seeking to track and evaluate climate adaptation. The Pritzker Briefs provide expert analysis to further public dialogue on issues affecting the environment. They are made possible through a generous donation by Anthony “Tony” Pritzker, managing partner and co-founder of The Pritzker Group.

Martine Rothblatt ’81 Delivers Regents Lecture

Martine Rothblatt ’81, chairman and CEO of United Therapeutics Corporation, delivered a Regents Lecture at UCLA School of Law in October on cyberconsciousness—simulation of the human brain via software and computer technology—and questions of artificial intelligence. She discussed her recently released book, Virtually Human: The Promise—and the Peril—of Digital Immortality, which explores what the future will look like when cyberconsciousness becomes part of our daily lives. She also examined some of the ethical issues relating to cyberconsciousness, including the governance of “mindclones,” digital copies of our minds. Asserting that “mindclones are just another form of the human spirit,” Rothblatt described the legal, ethical and moral challenges of recognizing these digital human consciousnesses as beings owed human rights, dignity and respect in society. She said that cyber law and cyber psychology will become huge fields and that eventually “lawyers will handle mindclone divorces.”
In August, the law school welcomed an impressive incoming J.D. class of 314 students, the largest--

Message from Dean Rachel F. Moran

UCLA School of Law continues to thrive. We are grateful by the success of our students, who are building the skills needed to impact their communities, the thought leadership of our faculty members, who are influencing law and policy, and the professionalism of our alumni, who are transforming the legal landscape. We celebrate the law school’s achievements on a daily basis, and as always, I am pleased to have this opportunity to share a few examples of our recent accolades and accomplishments with you.

Our students—the heart of our school—remain without compare. In August, we welcomed another outstanding class, including a record number of LL.M. students. The students hold degrees from top universities around the world and are accomplished both personally and professionally. Our 2L and 3L students and our recent graduates are equally impressive. They continue to secure prestigious fellowships, scholarships and recognition for their work. Of course, the student experience is also shaped by our stellar faculty, whose members are not only shaping legal discourse, but are also award-winning teachers who are engaged in educating the next generation of scholars and practitioners.

As part of preparing our students for success, we are always proud to provide them with unique opportunities to enrich the student experience. To this end, we have recently hosted numerous thought-provoking events. California Attorney General Kamala Harris was the keynote speaker at this year’s UCLA Law Review Symposium, which addressed human trafficking. Abusuma Martine Rothblatt delivered a fascinating Regents Lecture on cyber-consciousness. We were also extremely honored to welcome alumna Senator Kirsten Gillibrand to campus for a discussion of her new book and the official launch of the law school initiative, UCLA Law Women LEAD.

We are truly fortunate that even as our distinguished graduates go on to success, they do not forget their alma mater. They continue to stay involved in the life of our school by contributing their time, expertise and funds in support of the law school. In recent years, UCLA Law’s alumni participation rate has steadily grown to be among the top in the nation. Our success on the fundraising front is most important because it is a means to promote academic excellence and provide our students with a rich, intellectual experience.

Support our students in a top priority of the $150 million Centennial Campaign for UCLA School of Law. Enhanced private funding continues to be necessary. I encourage you to make a gift to the UCLA Law Annual Fund before the fiscal year ends on June 30, 2015. For those of you with a reunion this year, please consider participating in the Reunion Challenge and honoring your class with a financial commitment to UCLA Law. Remember to save the date, May 29-30, 2015, for Reunions 2015. I look forward to seeing many of you on campus for this special celebration.

The tradition of excellence at UCLA Law, which you have helped to build, lives on. Your generosity has afforded our students with a vital resource needed to further their far-ranging goals. With your investment in our future, the best is yet to come.

Warml y,

Rachel F. Moran
Dean and Michael J. Connell Distinguished Professor of Law

A. Barry Cappello Discusses Trial Tactics at Cappello Courtroom Series Event

In October, A. Barry Cappello ’65, managing partner of Cappello & Nöel LLP, discussed trial tactics and shared courtroom strategies during a talk as part of the Cappello Courtroom Series: The Art of the Trial. He focused on work done during his tenure as City Attorney of Santa Barbara, as the chief litigator against Union Oil, Mobil, Gulf and Texaco for the massive 1969 Santa Barbara Channel oil spill. Cappello described what it was like in Santa Barbara at the time of the spill—the smell of oil permeating the city for months—and the challenges of trying to litigate a case in an age with few environmental regulations. He said that if anything good came out of the spill and the ensuing litigation—the case settled in 1974 right before trial—it was that it helped ignite the environmental movement in the United States. He also answered questions from students and offered advice on some of the tools necessary to become a successful trial lawyer. The law school inaugurated the Cappello Courtroom Series, which brings leading trial attorneys to the law school to discuss the skills needed to be a successful litigator, in October 2012.

UCLA Law Welcomes Class of 2017

In August, the law school welcomed an impressive incoming J.D. class of 314 students, the largest-- approximately 5,500 applicants; the median LSAT score for the class is 167 and the median GPA is 3.79. The incoming J.D. students participated in the law school’s newly designed, week-long orientation program, which provides students with an introduction to the tools of legal analysis. The students will also benefit from changes to the curriculum that the law school has started to implement, including a course to help hone critical interviewing skills that includes a live-client field placement component, and a collection of elective courses reserved exclusively for 1Ls that introduce students to cutting-edge legal issues.

The J.D. students, who are from 34 states and nine foreign countries, left behind a variety of careers prior to law school. The class includes entrepreneurs who have started their own businesses, a model, an options trader, a Persian linguist, numerous journalists, a stem cell researcher, a Master Explosive Ordnance Disposal Technician for the U.S. Navy, a clown, a detective, a former ballerina, a disk jockey, a Deputy Hemispheric Security Coordinator for the U.S. Department of State, a pilot for the U.S. Marine Corps and a Navy SEAL. The class also includes veterans, professional artists, musicians and athletes. In addition, 6% of the class holds advanced degrees.

The incoming LL.M. students, who were selected from more than 1,500 applicants, are from 39 countries. They have earned law degrees from top-ranked law schools around the world, and five members of the class already hold an American J.D. degree. The students come from a range of practice areas and professional backgrounds. The class includes a senior tax consultant for Ernst and Young, a public prosecutor and human rights monitor in Ethiopia, a senior associate for PricewaterhouseCoopers, a contract analyst for Accenture, in-house counsel for Toshiba, Monsanto and Samsung, senior advisors to Colombian government ministers, as well as a military judge in South Korea and a provincial court judge in Thailand. The new J.D. student, who previously completed UCLA Law’s LL.M. program, is working with Professor Kai Raustiala to analyze the root causes of post-Cold War international conflicts in light of emerging mechanisms of preventive diplomacy.
Our faculty members are quoted in the press virtually every day. These are only some of the many examples. Please visit law.ucla.edu to read more.
Quarterly article, and he was quoted in a Reuters article on proposed soda taxes in Berkeley and San Francisco.

Richard Sander participated in a Harvard Law School debate entitled “Does Affirmative Action On Campus Do More Harm Than Good?,” which aired on NPR.

Joanna Schwartz commented in multiple media outlets, including the New York Daily News, NPR, “Marketplace,” and The Atlantic’s “CityLab,” on the issues involved in lawsuits filed against police officers. Her published research on the importance of tracking and analyzing lawsuits brought against law enforcement agencies was widely cited in the New York City comptroller’s initiative to identify patterns and improve practices by examining claims against the city. Her article on the examination of indemnification in constitutional tort cases was highlighted in a SCOTUS Blog article, where she was quoted in a Salon article on the role of police officers and teachers in America, and she was cited in a Reuters article on the civil lawsuit against local authorities for the fatal shooting in Ferguson, Missouri.

Seana Shifrin discussed, in a Los Angeles Daily Journal article, the decision in a case involving the constitutionality of credit card late fees that she argued before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

Timothy Spangler was featured in interviews on Australia’s ABC Radio about JP Morgan’s settlement for the company’s role in the Madoff fraud and Forex manipulation in the U.S. and the United Kingdom. He discussed private equity and hedge funds in an op-ed he published in the Los Angeles Times, and in interviews on ABC 7TV’s “The Business,” CNBC’s “Closing Bell” and the Australian.

Kirk Stark was featured on a “Morning Edition” segment on NPR concerning sales tax for prepared and unprepared food.

Lara Stemple was interviewed on KPFK-FM’s “Take Two” and Al Jazeera to discuss her research on sexual violence against men, which was also cited in a Slate column.

Katherine Stone discussed social security benefits guaranteed by the government in a Tampa Bay Times article. She commented on the debate surrounding Senator Bob Corker’s comments interfering with a Volkswagen union vote in the Tennessee, and she was quoted in an article in The Information on the ruling in Alexander v. Pollock.

Alex Wang commented on air pollution issues in China in multiple New York Times and Reuters articles, and he was interviewed on KPFK-FM’s “Take Two” on China’s climate change goals. He also published an op-ed in Talking Points Memo on the U.S. and China climate agreement.

Adam Winkler commented on various constitutional issues, including issues pertaining to gun control, in multiple leading media outlets, including Newsweek, MSNBC, the Huffington Post, Los Angeles Times, Talking Points Memo, USA Today, Slate, Bloomberg, Wall Street Journal, Associated Press, New York Times, NBC News, Forbes, Christian Science Monitor and CNN. He published an op-ed in Slate, The New Republic and the Huffington Post on numerous topics, including religious liberty for corporations and the impact of Hobby Lobby v. Sebelius on gay rights. He was also interviewed on KPFK-FM’s “Air Talk,” NPR’s “All Things Considered” and ACRW-FM’s “10 from the Point.”

Jonathan Zasloff was quoted in a Los Angeles Times article on California bills to regulate groundwater supplies.

Noah Zatz was featured in an American Prospect article, discussing the labor rights of prison workers, and he published an op-ed in The New York Times on compensation for housework.

Eric Zolt published an op-ed in Slate calling for less progressive taxes and more progressive spending.

Lowell Milken Institute Hosts Business Law Breakfasts

During the fall semester, the Lowell Milken Institute for Business Law and Policy sponsored a series of Business Law Breakfasts. In October, a panel of experts at “Corporate Cybersecurity Challenges” discussed the legal, regulatory and policy issues facing the business community. The panelists included: James Aquilina, executive managing director, Stroz Friedberg; Grant Davis-Denny, partner, Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP; Jeffrey Rakbin, special assistant attorney general, California Department of Justice; and moderator Kristen Eichenheier, UCLA Law visiting assistant professor. In November, Peter R. Reilly, associate professor of law at Texas A&M University School of Law, gave the talk “Districts Defer’d: Justice Denied: We Must End Our Failed Experiment in Deferring Corporate Criminal Prosecutions.” In December, Michael B. Dorff, professor of law at Southwestern Law School, discussed his book Indigenous and Other Myths: Why the CEO Pay Experiment Failed and how to Fix it during a conversation moderated by UCLA Law’s Stephen M. Bainbridge, William D. Warren distinguished professor of law.

Seventh Critical Race Studies Symposium Celebrates the Work of Professor Cheryl Harris

In October, the Critical Race Studies Program hosted the Seventh Annual Critical Race Studies Symposium, “Whiteness as Property: A Twenty-Year Appraisal.” The two-day event, which brought together prominent academics and advocates from around the globe, celebrated one of the seminal texts of Critical Race Theory, “Whiteness as Property,” which was written by UCLA Law Professor Cheryl Harris, Rosalinde and Arthur Gilbert professor in civil rights and civil liberties, and published in 1993 of Critical Race Theory, “Whiteness as Property,” which was written by UCLA Law Professor Cheryl Harris, Rosalinde and Arthur Gilbert professor in civil rights and civil liberties, and published in 1993 in the Harvard Law Review. Participants reflected on the political, legal and intellectual context out of which “Whiteness as Property” emerged, explored the article’s impact across academic disciplines, and considered how its theoretical arguments have shaped contemporary civil rights debates, pedagogy, legal practice and social movement organizing. Professor Harris delivered the event’s keynote address, discussing the personal and political genealogy of the article, the ongoing implications of race and property and how forms of whiteness as property are operating under post-racialism.

Designate UCLA Law as a Cy Pres Recipient

UCLA School of Law qualifies as a class action cy pres recipient. Directing cy pres funds to the law school can help advance UCLA Law’s longstanding tradition of access and service. Cy pres funds also can provide community support when directed to UCLA Law programs like the El Centro Legal Clinics or the David J. Epstein Program in Public Interest Law and Policy. While it is ultimately up to the courts to determine whether a cy pres award is appropriate and where it should be directed, plaintiff and defense attorneys can play an important role by recommending to the court that UCLA School of Law be named as the beneficiary.
UCLA Law Receives Gift to Support the First Amendment Amicus Brief Clinic

UCLA School of Law has received a gift from angel investors Scott and Cyan Banister to support the law school’s First Amendment Amicus Brief Clinic. The clinic, which was launched in fall 2013, will be named the Scott & Cyan Banister First Amendment Clinic in recognition of the generous gift.

Under the direction of Professor Eugene Volokh, one of the nation’s leading First Amendment scholars, the clinic provides students with real-world experience drafting and filing friend-of-the-court briefs in state and federal courts on behalf of nonprofit organizations and academic groups. The briefs cover a wide range of free speech and religious freedom questions, both under the First Amendment and related statutes. To date, the clinic has filed 20 briefs on behalf of groups such as the Electronic Frontier Foundation, the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education, the Student Press Law Center, the ACLU of Virginia, the Becket Fund for Religious Liberty and the Cato Institute.

Scott Banister is best known as a co-founder of IronPort, an email appliance provider that was bought by Cisco in 2007, and as an early advisor and board member at PayPal, where he co-invented the “email payments” feature. Banister has also long been interested in law and how it can affect innovation and freedom, including especially the freedom of speech.

If you are interested in supporting current or future offerings in UCLA Law’s experiential programs, there are a number of courses and projects that would benefit from your contributions. For more information on how you can support our clinics and other experiential course offerings, please contact Ben Chandler in the Office of External Affairs at 310.206.1061 or chandler@law.ucla.edu.

Epstein Program Inaugurates Prison Law and Policy Initiative

This fall, the David J. Epstein Program in Public Interest Law and Policy inaugurated the Prison Law and Policy Program, an initiative that explores the ways that the law structures all aspects of the contemporary experience of criminal punishment in the United States. Led by Professor Sharon Dolovich, the program provides students with opportunities for involvement in related policy and legal efforts. During the fall semester, students were introduced to diverse topics in prison law, including the interplay between California’s budgetary constraints and the protection of prisoners’ rights under the Eighth Amendment, and the free speech challenges prisoners face in California prisons and jails. The program also hosted a roundtable discussion among leading prison law and policy scholars.

UCLA Law Hosts 39th UCLA Entertainment Symposium

Harvey Levin, executive producer of TMZ, delivers keynote address

UCLA School of Law hosted the 39th UCLA Entertainment Symposium, “Hollywood Over-the-Top,” in March. The annual event, which focuses on emerging legal challenges in the entertainment industry, featured several hundred leading entertainment industry executives who explored the latest trends and issues affecting the industry. A highlight of this year’s symposium was a talk by Harvey Levin, executive producer of TMZ.com, who served as the keynote speaker. The two-day symposium also included a broad range of panels exploring the changing landscape of the entertainment industry. The panelists and moderators included key executives from studios and production companies, independent producers, agents and attorneys who shared their perspectives from the front lines.

UCLA Law Celebrates 20th Anniversary of the Green Lecture

Four distinguished alumni trial lawyers who previously delivered the Irving H. Green Memorial Lecture returned to campus in November to serve as Green lecturers at this year’s 20th anniversary celebration. Participating in a panel discussion, they each shared stories from their careers, discussed changes in the profession and answered questions from students about their chosen career paths. The panelists included: Brad Baker ’75, a veteran estate planning attorney and partner at Baker, Burton & Lundy, PC; Harland Braun ’62, a premier Los Angeles criminal defense attorney and principal of the Law Office of Harland W. Braun; A. Barry Cappello ’85, one of the nation’s leading trial lawyers and authorities on complex commercial litigation and the managing partner of Cappello & Noel LLP; and Anna Park ’92, a prominent civil rights litigator and the regional attorney for the Los Angeles Office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Professor Emeritus Stephen Wexzal moderated the discussion.
Faculty Announcements

Our faculty members are consistently recognized for their excellence. These are only a few of the many honors they have received.

Professor Emeritus Gary Blasi has received a Caliifornia Lawyer Attorney of the Year (CLAY) Award. He was part of a team of lawyers who won the first significant reform in decades of Los Angeles County’s General Relief program, which provides assistance to more than 100,000 homeless and indigent people. The CLAY Award is given to lawyers whose work had a significant impact in the preceding year.

Professor Gerald López was awarded the 2015 Deborah L. Rhode Award by the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) Section on Pro Bono and Public Service Opportunities. He was honored with the award for his deep engagement in community lawyering and distinguished record of and commitment to public service.

Professor Jennifer Mnookin, David G. Price and Dallas F. Price professor of law, was appointed to a three-year term as a member of the National Academy of Sciences’ Committee on Science, Technology, and Law (CSTL). A nationally renowned expert in the area of evidence, Professor Mnookin will participate in annual CSTL meettings to discuss critical issues at the interface of science, technology and the law.

Dean Rachel F. Moran, Michael J. Connell distinguished professor of law, was named to Lawyers of Color’s Fourth Annual Power List, a comprehensive catalog of the nation’s most influential minority attorneys and non-minority diversity advocates. She was honored at a reception in March and profiled in the 2015 Lawyers of Color Power Issue.

Professor Hiroshi Motomura’s most recent book, Immigration Outside the Law, has won the Asociation of American Publishers 2015 Professional and Scholarly Excellence (PROSE) Award in the Law and Legal Studies category. The PROSE Awards annually recognize achievements in professional and scholarly publishing. This is the second time Professor Motomura, Susan Westerberg Prager professor of law, has received a PROSE Award—his book, Americans on Writing, won the same award in 2006.

Tony Tolbert, director of learning environment and academic affairs and an adjunct faculty member at UCLA Law, received the UCLA Chancellor’s Diversity Leadership Scholarship to attend the Multidimensional Leaders’ Institute, a leadership development program. He was selected to receive the scholarship for his expertise, professional ser-dvice, commitment to leadership development and dedication to UCLA’s mission.

UCLA Law Introduces Attorney Incubator Program

UCLA School of Law, along with Pepperdine University School of Law and Southwestern Law School, has launched a pilot attorney incubator program to help new lawyers establish and develop viable solo law practices serving modest means clients in Los Angeles County. The Los Angeles Incubator Consortium will train 12-15 alumni—four to five from each law school—in skills specifically geared toward effective solo practice management, including client communication, case management and business opportunity development. In partnership with local legal aid organizations, the program will also equip participants with training in substantive areas of law in exchange for 200 hours of pro-bono representation. Participants will receive mentorship and guidance on legal strategy from lawyers and retired judges. The program is open to graduates from the classes of 2010-2014.

Emmett Institute Report Addresses California’s Approach to REDD+ Offsets

In November, the Center for Global Development published a report authored by scholars at the Emmett Institute on Climate Change and the Environment on California’s ongoing debate over whether to credit REDD+ offsets under the state’s greenhouse gas cap-and-trade program. While California has been considering the acceptance of REDD+ offsets for years, the state has yet to determine its approach. The report summarizes the ongoing political history of the debate and characterizes the key questions on which the state’s decision is likely to turn. The report was authored by Jesse Lueders, Cara Horowitz, Ann Carlson, Sean Hecht and Tid Paran. It is part of the Center for Global Development’s paper series “Why Forests? Why None? The Science, Economics, and Politics of Tropical Forests and Climate Change.”

UCLA Law Connect Launches

UCLA Law recently launched UCLA Law Connect, an online networking platform exclusive to UCLA Law alumni. UCLA Law Connect is fully integrated with social media networks and provides a meaningful, seamless way for alumni to stay in touch with the law school and with each other. Alumni can login through LinkedIn or Facebook accounts or can register with an email address. UCLA Law Connect makes it easy to re-connect with classmates, expand professional networks and receive updates on law school news and events. Please visit uclalawconnect.com and help us build an even stronger and more vibrant community of UCLA Law alumni around the globe.

UCLA Law Hosts Whither the Court

In September, UCLA Law hosted Whither the Court: the Allan C. Lebow Annual Supreme Court Review. The program focused on a review of the court’s prior term and a preview of what the current term might hold. The panelists provided an analysis of the decisions in Burwell v. Hobby Lobby Stores, Inc., McCullen v. Coakley, Harris v. Quinn, Town of Greece v. Galloway, McCutcheon v. Federal Election Committee and Riley v. California, and discussed the implications of these decisions for lawyers, academics and citizens. The participants included UCLA School of Law Professors Devon Carbado and Eugene Volokh, as well as UCLA School of Law Visiting Professor Doug Nelsaime and Sue Dunlap, president and chief executive officer of Planned Parenthood Los Angeles. The discussion was moderated by UCLA Law Professor Adam Winkler, and Laurence H. Tribe, Carl M. Loeb university professor at Harvard Law School, delivered the closing keynote address.
The Honorable Paul A. Turner ’72, presiding judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles, was profiled in the Los Angeles Daily Journal for helping to keep a full calendar despite ongoing cancer treatment and waiting for a liver transplant.

John T. Frankenhuisel ’73 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William M. Kahane ’74 has been elected as a new client chairman of the board of New York REIT Inc., a publicly traded real estate investment trust. Kahane served as chief executive officer and president of the Blue Chip Trust, a publicly traded REIT, which he co-founded in 2007 and which was listed on the NASDAQ in 2012.

Randolph C. Visser ’74, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Shepherd Mullin, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

John G. Branca ’79 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers and one of the Top 100 Lawyers in California.

Vic J. Gold ’79 is ending his tenure after seven years as dean of Loyola Law School in Los Angeles. Formerly associated with the firm now called Nasman LLP, Gold joined the Loyola faculty in 1999 and became an associate dean in 2000. During his tenure as dean, the school significantly increased its endowment, established dozens of scholarships, created a number of subject-matter concentrations and expanded more than half of the school’s new clinics. Gold said he will take a year-long sabbatical to update his books on federal practice and precedents and his evidence textbook. He plans to return to the Loyola faculty in 2016.

The Honorable Abet Kazemisheh ’73 was profiled by the Los Angeles Daily Journal at the end of her term as chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, a position she held for seven years. During her time as chief judge, she moved the nation’s largest court circuit through economic crisis, a historic work overload and skimishes with Congress over judicial compensation. She championed the installation of technology that includes live audio and video streaming of oral argument sessions. She also oversaw a case filing system used by 62,742 registered attorneys.

Ginny Sloey ’75, founder and president of Sloeby Sloeby Sloeby, Washington, D.C., received the 2014 Excellence in Advocacy Award for a Federal Campaign, presented at the Professional Women in Advocacy Conference in November. Of the 40 nominees, Sloey was chosen for her leadership efforts on obtaining funding for federal public defenders.

Howard E. King ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of King & Spalding, was named by Bellfords LLP as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William Sullivan ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Paul Hastings, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

The Honorable Ann Kough (Ret.) ’78 was profiled by the Los Angeles Daily Journal in December. The article highlighted her efficiency and thoroughness as a judge and resolution specialist with JAMS in Los Angeles and San Jose.

Nancy Alport ’78 has left AARP’s Television Networks, LLC, where she had been vice president and general counsel since 2007. She previously served as deputy general counsel and vice president of its business and legal affairs division.

Melanie Cook ’78 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named to The Hollywood Reporter’s 2014 Power 100 listing of Women in Entertainment.

Lisa Greer Quaestum ’78 has been named general counsel of the UCLA Alumni Association. While serving on the executive nonvoting and governing council of the alumni association, she will continue as the office managing partner at Polonelli LLP in Los Angeles.

Glen Whitehead, ’78, executive vice president of business and legal affairs at HBO, was included in Variety’s Dealmaker’s Impact Report for 2014.

Sandra Slam ’79, chief of staff for the office of Liongate TV, was named to The Hollywood Reporter’s 2014 Power 100 listing of Women in Entertainment.

The Honorable Henry Waxman (Ret.) ’66 was appointed by President Obama as United States Commissioner of the Census, a position he will hold until the end of his term as a member of Congress, following his defeat in the 2014 midterm election. Waxman was re-elected to a 14th term in 2008 and it was time for someone new.”

Congressional testimony is a common practice for a Federal Campaign, presented at the Professional Women in Advocacy Conference in November. Of the 40 nominees, Sloey was chosen for her leadership efforts on obtaining funding for federal public defenders.

Howard E. King ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of King & Spalding, was named by Bellfords LLP as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William Sullivan ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Paul Hastings, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

The Honorable Paul A. Turner ’72, presiding judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles, was profiled in the Los Angeles Daily Journal for keeping a full calendar despite ongoing cancer treatment and waiting for a liver transplant.

John T. Frankenhuisel ’73 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William M. Kahane ’74 has been elected as a new client chairman of the board of New York REIT Inc., a publicly traded real estate investment trust. Kahane served as chief executive officer and president of the Blue Chip Trust, a publicly traded REIT, which he co-founded in 2007 and which was listed on the NASDAQ in 2012.

Randolph C. Visser ’74, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Shepherd Mullin, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

John G. Branca ’79 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers and one of the Top 100 Lawyers in California.

Vic J. Gold ’79 is ending his tenure after seven years as dean of Loyola Law School in Los Angeles. Formerly associated with the firm now called Nasman LLP, Gold joined the Loyola faculty in 1999 and became an associate dean in 2000. During his tenure as dean, the school significantly increased its endowment, established dozens of scholarships, created a number of subject-matter concentrations and expanded more than half of the school’s new clinics. Gold said he will take a year-long sabbatical to update his books on federal practice and precedents and his evidence textbook. He plans to return to the Loyola faculty in 2016.

The Honorable Abet Kazemisheh ’73 was profiled by the Los Angeles Daily Journal at the end of her term as chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, a position she held for seven years. During her time as chief judge, she moved the nation’s largest court circuit through economic crisis, a historic work overload and skirmishes with Congress over judicial compensation. She championed the installation of technology that includes live audio and video streaming of oral argument sessions. She also oversaw a case filing system used by 62,742 registered attorneys.

Ginny Sloey ’75, founder and president of Sloeby Sloeby Sloeby, Washington, D.C., received the 2014 Excellence in Advocacy Award for a Federal Campaign, presented at the Professional Women in Advocacy Conference in November. Of the 40 nominees, Sloey was chosen for her leadership efforts on obtaining funding for federal public defenders.

Howard E. King ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of King & Spalding, was named by Bellfords LLP as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William Sullivan ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Paul Hastings, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

The Honorable Henry Waxman (Ret.) ’66 was appointed by President Obama as United States Commissioner of the Census, a position he will hold until the end of his term as a member of Congress, following his defeat in the 2014 midterm election. Waxman was re-elected to a 14th term in 2008 and it was time for someone new.”

Congressional testimony is a common practice for a Federal Campaign, presented at the Professional Women in Advocacy Conference in November. Of the 40 nominees, Sloey was chosen for her leadership efforts on obtaining funding for federal public defenders.

Howard E. King ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of King & Spalding, was named by Bellfords LLP as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William Sullivan ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Paul Hastings, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

The Honorable Paul A. Turner ’72, presiding judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles, was profiled in the Los Angeles Daily Journal for keeping a full calendar despite ongoing cancer treatment and waiting for a liver transplant.

John T. Frankenhuisel ’73 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William M. Kahane ’74 has been elected as a new client chairman of the board of New York REIT Inc., a publicly traded real estate investment trust. Kahane served as chief executive officer and president of the Blue Chip Trust, a publicly traded REIT, which he co-founded in 2007 and which was listed on the NASDAQ in 2012.

Randolph C. Visser ’74, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Shepherd Mullin, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

John G. Branca ’79 of Ziffren, Bitran LLP was named by the Los Angeles Daily Journal as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers and one of the Top 100 Lawyers in California.

Vic J. Gold ’79 is ending his tenure after seven years as dean of Loyola Law School in Los Angeles. Formerly associated with the firm now called Nasman LLP, Gold joined the Loyola faculty in 1999 and became an associate dean in 2000. During his tenure as dean, the school significantly increased its endowment, established dozens of scholarships, created a number of subject-matter concentrations and expanded more than half of the school’s new clinics. Gold said he will take a year-long sabbatical to update his books on federal practice and precedents and his evidence textbook. He plans to return to the Loyola faculty in 2016.

The Honorable Abet Kazemisheh ’73 was profiled by the Los Angeles Daily Journal at the end of her term as chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, a position she held for seven years. During her time as chief judge, she moved the nation’s largest court circuit through economic crisis, a historic work overload and skirmishes with Congress over judicial compensation. She championed the installation of technology that includes live audio and video streaming of oral argument sessions. She also oversaw a case filing system used by 62,742 registered attorneys.

Ginny Sloey ’75, founder and president of Sloeby Sloeby Sloeby, Washington, D.C., received the 2014 Excellence in Advocacy Award for a Federal Campaign, presented at the Professional Women in Advocacy Conference in November. Of the 40 nominees, Sloey was chosen for her leadership efforts on obtaining funding for federal public defenders.

Howard E. King ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of King & Spalding, was named by Bellfords LLP as one of California’s Top Entertainment Lawyers.

William Sullivan ’77, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Paul Hastings, was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.
M.C. Sungaila ‘87 has joined Simpson Thacher & Bartlett as a partner in the firm’s Los Angeles office. He was previously the U.S. Department of Education’s general counsel.

Liane Randolph “55 was appointed by Governor Brown as commissioner of the California Public Utilities Commission. Randolph has served in several positions in the California Natural Resources Agency since 2011, including deputy secretary and general counsel.

Oswald Cousins ‘94 is a new partner at Nixon Peabody. He joined the firm’s Real Estate & Employment practice in San Francisco from Little Morgan. Cousins concentrates in employment-related areas of wrongful termination, discrimination and harassment, wage and hour, disability accommodation, trade secrets and contract disputes.

Patrick Gibbs ‘94 was named among the Top 100 Lawyers in California by the Los Angeles Daily Journal. He is a partner in the Silicon Valley office of Latham & Watkins LLP.

Cheryl Stone ‘97, a partner at Gun & Tang, Ramon & Boren, was included in Verity’s Defaulter’s Impact Report for 2014.

The Honorable Bupa Grovemeni ‘98 was profiled in the Los Angeles Daily Journal as the state’s first South Asian female judge. She was appointed by Governor Brown to the Los Angeles County Superior Court in 2015.

Pauline Maxwell ‘98 was appointed to a judgeship in the Santa Barbara County Superior Court by Governor Brown. Maxwell has served as a commissioner at the Santa Barbara County Superior Court since 2010, where she has a staff of approximately 35 people.

Larry Yeo ‘98 has been appointed by Governor Brown to the California Commission on Disability Access. Yeo was a government relations general counsel at Westfield LLP since 2007.

Herman Vera ‘90 is joining Bird, Marella, Sloan, Wilbur, Dorsey, Livinston, Docks, Livingston & Roch ‘72 in Los Angeles as a litigation partner. He joins the firm from a firm he founded with two partners, public and chief executive officer. He spent 15 years at Public Counsel overseeing Equality California, where he helped the organization more than double in size with a strategic focus on expanding services to the Latino and Asian communities.

Gregory J. Jones ‘95 has joined Debrah Goettel PLLC as a senior counsel in Los Angeles. He was previously with Swaim, Truax & Glenn PC.

Barbara Kring ‘95, who has been director of human resources for the state of Hawaii for the past six years, is returning to the nonprofit world of education as an assistant superintendent. She was previously an employment and labor attorney with Alston, Hunt Floyd & Ing.

Sara A. Mann ‘95 has joined Himanen & Conners LLP as a partner in the firm’s San Francisco office.

Matthew Ezra ‘94, a partner at the Century City office of O’Melveny & Myers LLP, was included in Latham & Watkins’ Defaulter’s Impact Report for 2014.

Annette Frank ‘90 is the Los Angeles managing partner of Boies, Schiller & Flexner LLP.

Lillian Vega Jacobs ‘97 has been appointed to the Los Angeles County Bar Association’s Indigent Criminal Defense Appointments Program since 2019. Lillian was appointed to the Los Angeles County Superior Court by the Los Angeles Daily Journal.

Joshua Dean ‘97 has joined Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton LLP as a partner in Orange County. Dunn’s practice focuses primarily on mergers and acquisitions, public offerings and private placements of equity and debt securities, as well as general business law.

Sandra M. Forman ‘94 has joined Proskauer as a senior counsel in the firm’s New York office. She is part of Proskauer’s business development companion team and came to the firm after a decade at Hersh and Gruss Group, where she was general counsel and chief compliance officer.

Basha Georges Shields ’97 has joined Jones Day as a partner. She was previously an assistant United States attorney in Los Angeles, where she served as the deputy chief of the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force Section. In addition to joining Jones Day, Basha also got married last year.

Lee Ginsburg ‘02 of Cooley LLP was included in Verity’s Defaulter’s Impact Report for 2014.

Officer Lion ‘12 has joined the Los Angeles office of Seyfarth Shaw LLP as a partner. She was previously with Harmon & Williams LLP.

Peter L. Howell ‘90 is now a partner in the Costa Mesa office of Burton & Tucker LLP.

Stephanie C. Thomas ‘95 is now a partner in the San Francisco office of Morrison & Foerster LLP.

Jeffrey M. Goldman ‘04 has joined Pepper Hamilton LLP as a partner in the Orange County and Los Angeles office.

Trilla M. Murata ‘06 is now a partner with Morrison & Foerster LLP in Los Angeles.

Glenn Nieves ’93, general counsel and vice president of government affairs for Wildlife Connection (Wiken), was profiled in the Zoological Society of New York’s annual report. He was appointed to the organization’s leadership board in 2017.

Danny Passman ’94, a partner at Gun & Tang, Ramon & Boren, was included in Verity’s Defaulter’s Impact Report for 2014. He was previously named a Top 25 New Leader by Variety’s Hollywood New Leaders. He focuses his practice on entertainment law and the representation of clients’ interests in California and London.

Elizabeth V. Oh ‘06 has been promoted to counsel in Linda & Witors’ Los Angeles office. Oh is a member of the Finance Department. Her practice includes the representation of lenders, borrowers and equity sponsors in complex financial transactions and other general transactional matters.

Tami K. Sims ‘04, an associate at Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP, was profiled in the Los Angeles Daily Journal ‘2014: The Year in Business Bankruptcy in December as part of a series highlighting pro bono work. She was included for her successful representation of an 88-year-old woman in a case of elder abuse.

Aaren Gafni ‘07 was included in Variety’s rounded up of Hollywood’s Top 100 Young Hollywood Leaders. He is an associate at Ginsburg Gluck, Gluck served as a legal advisor to the Bono-starring film “12 Years a Slave” in California.

Nicholas Hobson ‘97 is now a partner in Cozen Yeller LLP’s San Francisco office.

Jessica Kornberg ‘97 was named president and CEO of the Tides Center. She was previously with the Public Interest Research Group, NEA, Neustadt, Livinston, Docks, Livingston & Roch ‘72, and she also has served as a fellow with the National Organization for Women’s Legal Defense and Educational Fund in New York. She served as a co-chair of the Board of Directors of The Women’s Leadership Network and as a volunteer with the Tides Center during the past four years.

Laura Stiff ‘97 is now a partner with Goudsmit Project LLP.

Erik Halvorson ‘98 is now a partner in the Los Angeles office of Kirkland & Ellis LLP.

Leigh Goldings, ‘98 an attorney at the Urban Justice Center’s Safety Net Project, was recently selected as a Fulbright Specialist, residing in Malta in March to teach social entrepreneurship.

Trina Koonst ‘07 was profiled in November in a front-page Los Angeles Times article on wage theft in the garment industry. A graduate of the David Geffen School of Public Policy, she is also a Race & Critical Social Studies program, Koonst is the lead immigration director under the UCLA Downtown Law Center.

James Behnke ‘11, a policy practitioner and law professor at the University of Iowa College of Law, was recently selected to be included in this year’s Guide to the Best in Business Bankruptcy.

R. Daniel Cartier ‘11 has joined the Tulsa office of Connell & Noike, where he will continue his practice in both litigation and transactional matters, with a particular focus on oil and natural resource law. Prior to joining the firm, he worked as a staff attorney for the U.S. Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

Carolyn Dorssett ‘12 joined the business development team of SourceND, a nationwide organization that provides protection and advocacy for LGBT and HIV-positive communities.

Danny Dorssett joins Immigration Law from California Attorney General’s Office, where she was a chief attorney at the LGBT Rights Division. She also is a former staff attorney at the San Diego LGBT Community Center.

Lauren Bernadett ‘13 joined Sacramento’s Somm & Daniels, Prior to joining the Somm law firm, she was a 2014 California State Senator for the California State Senate Commission. She is also completing her L.U.M. degree in Agriculture and Food Law at the University of Arizona School of Law.

Yosef Mahmodov ‘15 has joined Blank Rome LLP as an associate in the Corporate Litigation group. He is based in the firm’s Los Angeles office and previously worked at Bingham McCalloun, where he was an associate.

Todd A. Davidovits ‘14 has joined the Ste. Lous University’s Office of Patents & LLLP in the intellectual property litigation practice group.

In Memoriam

Jane W. Adler ‘81
Sanford L. Bricker ‘60
Daniel M. Caine ’67
Craig D. Cockwell ‘68
Dale V. Cunningham ‘60
Marilyn V. Freytag ’59
Geraldine S. Hemminger ‘52
June S. Kim ‘96
Jack R. Kozdik ‘84
Ronald B. Labove ‘33
Robert A. McFarland ‘67
Robert E. Meyer ‘53
Donald V. Moreland ’77
Raymond R. Nagel ’53
William G. Pearson ’73
Charles E. Rickerbauer ’75
Judith R. Seligman ’84
Thomas W. Sneddon ’66
Edgar J. Steile ’82
Eye Trifio ‘74
Clyde R. Walters ‘78

8 UCLA LAW NEWSLETTER | SPRING 2015
In October, the International and Comparative Law Program hosted a keynote talk by New Yorker writer Evan Osnos on his new book, Age of Ambition: Chasing Fortune, Truth and Faith in the New China. The book describes China’s journey from poverty to an era of materialism and examines the clash between the rise of the individual and the Communist Party’s struggle to retain control. His talk was followed by a panel discussion with UCLA Law Assistant Professor Alex Wang, Yunxiang Yan, a professor of anthropology at UCLA and Jeffrey Wasserstrum, chancellor’s professor of history at UC Irvine. The conversation was moderated by UCLA Law Professor Kal Raskin, director of the UCLA Buildke Center for International Relations and associate vice provost of the International Institute.

Environmental Law Clinic Students Participate in U.N. Climate Talks in Peru

Three students in the Frank G. Wells Environmental Law Clinic—Jacoby Cohen ’15, Sarah Kozal ’16 and Sunny Tsou ’16—received hands-on experience advising on climate change issues as delegates at the 20th annual Conference of Parties (COP20) to the United Nations’ Framework Convention on Climate Change. The students traveled to Lima, Peru, in December with Cara Horowitz, Andrew Sabin Family Foundation co-executive director of the Emmett Institute on Climate Change and the Environment and co-director of the Environmental Law Clinic, and Jesse L. Lueders, Emmett/Frankel fellow in environmental law and policy. In the semester leading up to the conference, the students prepared two reports demonstrating the success of cool-rooftop policies in Los Angeles and green building codes in California, both of which have reduced greenhouse gas emissions. The reports, which were submitted at the conference, suggest how the U.N. can reduce barriers for other nations interested in the adoption of these programs. In Peru, the students acted as legal advisors, attending negotiation sessions and providing legal analyses and other support to clinic client Islands First, which assists small, developing island nations in international negotiations.

Inaugural UCLA-Harvard Food Law and Policy Conference

In October, the Reznick Program for Food Law and Policy and the Food Law Lab at Harvard Law School hosted the first annual UCLA-Harvard Food Law and Policy Conference, “Transparency in the Global Food System: What Information and to What Ends?” The conference brought together notable academics and practitioners for a discussion of the issue of transparency in the food system. Panel topics addressed the meaning of transparency, the role of the consumer in driving changes in the food system and whether transparency can help address problems in the food industry. Dr. David A. Kessler, former commissioner of the United States Food and Drug Administration and current professor at the University of California, San Francisco Medical School, delivered the keynote presentation on “The End of Overeating.” The joint annual conference is intended to provide a forum in which leading scholars and policymakers can offer expert perspectives on complex food law and policy questions and options for reform. The conference will alternate each year between Los Angeles and Cambridge.

Law Firm Challenge Kicks Off 13th Year

The success of the Law Firm Challenge, now in its 13th year, continues to grow. Under the leadership of UCLA Law Firm Challenge Founding Chair James D. C. Barrall ’75, 2014 was another successful year for the Law Firm Challenge—with 78% of alumni at a record-breaking 104 participating firms making a gift to the school and an impressive 54 firms reaching 100% in their support. This year, the challenge will continue to add more firms, increase alumni participation percentages and set new records. The Law Firm Challenge remains an important contributor to the school’s growing excellence and national reputation, and the leadership of our representatives at the firms is vital to the future of UCLA Law.

To learn more about the Law Firm Challenge, please visit law.ucla.edu/UFC.

Golden Reunion Celebration

The law school hosted the fifth annual Golden Reunion in November, a special event for alumni celebrating 50th or higher class reunions. More than 90 people attended the reunion luncheon, including representatives from each of the classes. It was a festive event filled with shared stories and fond memories of law school.

1. Evolya Kropfman, Bernard Kropfman, Naomi Nadelman, Richard Paddock
2. Melvin Sachs, Kim Purman, Joe Bryant, Stephen Solomon
3. David Law, Marilyn Silva-Lund
4. Arthur Greenberg, Joseph Tilden
5. Arthur Greenberg, Ben Danning, Joseph Tilden
6. Luis Derry, Naomi Nadelman
7. Seymour Fagan
8. Marvin Basem
Save the Date for Reunions 2015!

Mark your calendars for this year’s class reunions, which will be held May 29-30, 2015.

Come join classmates, friends and professors as we celebrate the classes of ’65, ’70, ’75, ’80, ’85, ’90, ’95, ’00, ’05 and ’10. Attend a special reunion reception and intimate dinner with your class, as well as other events on campus, including MCLE panels. A. Barry Cappello ’65, managing partner of Cappello & Nöel LLP, has been named the National Reunion Challenge Chair. Now entering its sixth year, the Reunion Challenge is an opportunity for alumni to honor their reunion classes with a financial commitment to the law school. As national chair, Barry will work with classes that graduated in years ending in 5 and 0 to increase challenge participation and help to make the reunions a resounding success.

For more information on reunions or to register, please visit law.ucla.edu/reunions.

Student and Recent Graduate Awards and Honors

Six UCLA School of Law students have received 2014 California Bar Foundation Diversity Scholarships—the most Diversity Scholarship recipients among California law schools this year. The UCLA Law recipients of the $7,500 scholarship are:

Carlos Almendarez ’15 | Gibson Dunn & Crutcher and Christine Brown Scholar
Mirta Alejandra Jiménez ’16 | Downey Brand Scholar
Shannon Myrick ’17 | Toyota Motor Sales USA Scholar
Delvin Turner ’17 | Latham & Watkins Scholar
Vivian Wong ’17 | Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton Scholar
Sika Yeboah-Sampong ’17 | Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton Scholar

UCLA Law alumnus Ana Graciela Núñez Mendoza ’04, an associate at Alexander Krakow + Glick LLP, is a recipient of the 2014 Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) Hernandez-Stern Law School Scholarship. MALDEF scholarships support law students who seek to further MALDEF’s mission of advancing the civil rights of the Latino community.

The Blue and Gold Standard

HIRING THE BEST AND THE BRIGHTEST!

The next time you are looking to hire on a full-time, part-time or contract basis, turn to the UCLA Law Office of Career Services to connect you to talented UCLA Law students and alumni. The Office of Career Services provides employers with an opportunity to post job listings or collect resumes, free of charge, for UCLA Law students and alumni.

TO FIND YOUR NEXT STELLAR CANDIDATE:
Please contact Beth Morante, assistant dean of career services, at 310.825.1877 or careers@law.ucla.edu.